MAYOR PRAISES WORK OF POLICE DEPARTMENT
AFTER BOY IS FOUND SAFE IN WASHINGTON

WOONSOCKET – Mayor Lisa Baldelli-Hunt today praised the professionalism of the Woonsocket Police Department after 6-year-old Daniel Britt was found safe in Washington State after an Amber Alert had been issued.

“It is a testament to the great work of Police Chief Thomas Carey and all the fine men and women of the Woonsocket Police Department who dedicated their resources to assist in the search for Daniel,” said Mayor Baldelli-Hunt. “They shared all the information they had obtained and they coordinated with numerous agencies around the country to make certain that this story had a happy ending. We are all relieved in the City of Woonsocket that Daniel is safe and unharmed.”

Mayor Baldelli-Hunt praised the work of Chief Carey, Public Safety Director Eugene Jalette and all the detectives and department members who gathered the information and worked with various authorities before the Rhode Island State Police issued the Amber Alert.

“The safe return of Daniel Britt shows that we have one of the finest police departments in the state and in our nation,” Mayor Baldelli-Hunt concluded.
