City of Woonsocket, Rhode Island

PRESS RELEASE

Subject: Small Business Workshop Services

Woonsocket Mayor Lisa Baldelli-Hunt, in conjunction with the Rhode Island District of the U.S. Small Business Administration, the Pawtucket Foundation, SCORE, the Center for Women & Enterprise, Bank Rhode Island, and the Northern Rhode Island Chamber of Commerce, has announced an innovative and information-packed seminar series that will touch on every aspect of small business ownership and help individuals in the community to start or improve their small business.

The seminars will take place in the Woonsocket Harris Public Library, 303 Clinton Street, Woonsocket. Topics include Government Contracting (May 20), Rebuilding your Credit (June 17), Financing Your Small Business (July 24), Understanding Financial Statements (August 21), Determining Your Business' Legal Structure (September 23), Social Media Marketing for the Holidays (October 23), 10 Steps to Starting a Business (November 13), and Power Networking for Small Business (December 11)."

"Starting a small business can be one of the hardest things to do in today's America," said Baldelli-Hunt, "but keeping one successful is even harder." She noted "A little help, advice and encouragement are waiting for you here."

All seminars presentations are free of charge; but pre-registration is required. To register call (401) 344-1000, email lpalagi@nrchamber.com, or visit www.nrochamber.com/events.
